

THREADING

Dear Valued Client,

I am in a lucky situation to be able to work with a Doctor who does all my client's aesthetic procedures and therefore giving me the opportunity to experience it first-hand. Explaining to my clients what to expect and how it feels and showing the results.

Face lift can take weeks to heal, where silhouette soft threads could be done in your lunch hr. No pain, because local injections are done all over the face. The only feeling is the pulling of the skin and later in the day the tightness in the hair line where the threads are pulled and cut off. The effect is instant.

I am 46years old and have always look after my skin, but one thing I could not fix was this sagging and loss of elasticity on my skin around my mouth and neck. Which make you look dragged down and old. Losing the appearance of youth and tight skin.

As we get older our skin starts to sag and gravitation is starting to pull everything down. The skin starts to appear sagged and aged. This usually happens in our 40ties. In my opinion the best time to start working with an Aesthetic Doctor in coordination with the skincare therapist to slow down the aging proses. No one wants to look fake nor sagged and old for their age.

This is the effect of the treatment. The treads will be cut off and the small holes takes 48hr to close. Takes 2 weeks for the swelling and slight bruising to heal and the cones to attached in the skin.

The threads will dissolve over time, but in the process collagen and elastin are stimulated and as time goes by the skin would look youthful and healthy.

Instant effect on the nasal lines on my cheeks

Jaw line is much more defined and smoother. Less sagging skin in the neckline.

I would highly recommend both these treatments. To find out more, visit my website:
